DAVIS THEATRE TODAY

Douglas Fairbanks in His Latest Artcraft, Feature, Headin' South, and Irene Hunt in The Stainless Barrier, Five-part Triangle Feature.

Many of the scenes in Headin' South, Douglas Fairbanks' latest Artcraft picture, which is now being shown at the Davis theatre, were tak-en on the Mexican border during a when trouble was brewing, and time when trouble was brewing, and close watch was kept on the hundred Mexicans who were engaged to take part in the photoplay. Headin' South is full of Mexican and western types, who supply the local color to the vivid border episodes.

The other feature is The Stainless Farrier, a five-part Triangle drama, starring Irene Hunt. This is a strong dramatic story and shows how a dramatic story and shows how a daughter of a fine old family per-jures herself on the witness stand to aave her worthless brother's neck. Somebody's Wife is the comedy to complete the show.

Coming tomorrow, three Keith vauacts and Enid Bennett

POETRY

A SESTRANGED, An Incident of the Alantian Border Once side by side our sunlit garden No gave we thought that allen lands were they.

His ripened fruit dropped luscion: on my farn.

His garden war was festooned with my vines.

They brimmed his autumn vat with amber wines.

And maught distorbed our rest from dusk to dawn, They

No hour perfect, was I did not see The day was long find drear I misset him from him place:
So much in common it were hard to tell— Each door stood wide where in and out all day.

The children trooped and shouted at their play.

For love and peace were ours and all was well.

One day an evil fell between us and our joys;
It called my neighbor's sons, it took my boys;
Deep trenches lie where once our gardens smiled. Where once our peaceful homes to but blackenes wide and far.
Our once fair acres he in desolation wild.

Each marched away, our sone in manhood's flower, our sone in No laste was theirs, bugoby a tyrant's power They were arrayed as foes in fierce advance;
When destruction's rain the Zeppelins shed.
There side by side our noble sons lay dead, for Prussia died and one for France.
